

Answer is Dactylitis. It refers to diffuse swelling of the digit often sausage shaped. Dactylitis occurs due to inflammation of small joints of the digits along with surrounding soft tissue. Commonly seen in conditions like Reactive arthritis, psoriatic arthritis, Tuberculosis, sickle cell anaemia etc.

Last modified: 10:19